THE TERRITORIES

Alanson Smith, formerly of Portland, is practicing law in Boise City in partnership with Judge Kelly

Packers in Idaho are getting up their animals and making preparations to start for the railroad One train has already left Boise for Kelton.

A mule team, with freight from Kelton, arrived at Boise City recently, having been forty days making the trip. Considering the season of the year, the animals were in a first rate condition

A Lodge of Good Templars has been organized in Salt Lake City, under the California jurisdiction Rev C C. Stratton and Mrs Gov Woods, well known in Oregon, are among the charter members.

A brother, writing from Idaho to the Keystone, says "Whenever we make a Mason in this jurisdiction, he has to subscribe to some good Masonic paper at once. We are determined that every brother shall know what is going on in the Masonic world"

The Idaho Statesman says: "From all parts of the country we learn that stock are doing extremely well this winter. We have heard of no losers, and indications are that no very severe weather will be experienced—at least not such as to prove detrimental to stock raisers"

The steamer Politkofsky and bark Tidal Wave have both got off the beach, and are again safe in port. They were blown at high water a week ago on the Scow Bay spit opposite Port Townsend Neither the Tidal Wave nor her cargo were at all damaged, and the Politkofsky suffered no other loss than the blowing down of her smoke stack.

Professor E K Hill, President of the Territorial University at Seattle, writes the following concerning this institute in the Dispatch of the 1st inst. "The monthly examinations for January took place on Friday. The results were very satisfactory owing to the regular attendance and punctuality of the pupils. Our rolls have gradually increased since the commencement of the term. There are now fifty eight in attendance. The per cent. of attendance has been reduced this month by sickness to 95, while the punctuality stands at 99½."

The Victoria Standard says that a private dispatch has been received in that city stating that Mr. Boutwell, Secretary of the United States Treasury, has issued orders forbidding the steamer Prince Alfred to carry freight either way between that city and San Francisco, for ports situated on the Sound. The reason for this order is not definitely known, but the supposition is that the carriage of freight from San Francisco for the Sound by the Prince Alfred was a violation of American coasting laws, and its continuance prohibited for that reason.

A recent number of a British Columbia paper contains this statement: "There is a large mound—300 feet high and 300 yards in diameter at the base—at the southern end of the prairie, about twenty five miles from Olympia, and scattered over the prairie for a distance of fifteen miles are many smaller mounds, not more than four feet high and twenty or thirty in diameter. Many conjectures have been made in the last twenty years as to what could have caused so singular a formation, but no one was ever curious enough until within the last few days to make any examination of the interior of these mounds. A few days ago one of the engineers of the North Pacific Railroad opened one of them and found the remains of pottery; and a more thorough examination of others revealed other curious relics, evidently the work of human hands; in fact, in every mound that has yet been opened, there is a some relic of a long forgotten race discovered."

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The mercury at Victoria stood 24 degrees below freezing on the 31st of January.

The bark Almatia has been thoroughly repaired at Victoria harbor and will soon be ready for her next voyage.

There seems, from the British Colonist, to be an unlimited amount of opposition to the Woman's Rights Bill lately passed by the Provincial Legislature.

A letter to the Colonist from Savona's Ferry, dated January 3d, says "We have had some heavy snow falls. I think it will be rather severe on cattle up in this vicinity, if this kind of weather holds out much longer.

Mr. Piper is drawing a cartoon representing the Victoria public gagged by the police in order to prevent them tippling on Sundays under the new Sabbath law, and the House of Assembly gagged by Booth with the new Rules of Order. Some of the portraits are speaking likenesses.

The Provincial Legislature, now in session at Victoria, is not a very dignified body, if we judge from the proceedings as published in the Colonist The following is a sample of the speeches: Mr. DeCosmos—Oh! the Yale Convention I remember a certain Hon. gentleman who blubbered at that Convention because he couldn't get his own way. [Laughter] Mr. Robson—If you mean me, I can safely say that I never blubbered. But the Hon. Premier, because he could not have his own way, rushed from the Convention with his hair streaming in the wind and went to bed at the hotel. I was told that I had killed him, and the whole Convention had to sit up all night and rub him with hot cloths to save his life. [Roars of laughter]

A Boston merchant, having advertised for a porter, was called on that day by a stalwart Yankee, who said, "I say, boss, be you the man what advertised for a porter?" "Yes," sternly replied the merchant, "and I expressly stated that all applications must be made by male." "Jes' so, boss," responded the Yankee, "an' ef I ain't a male I'd be obleeged ef yo'd tell me what I am." He got the situation

MADE A FORTUNE.—An amateur journalist of Indianapolis has made a fortune by his pen. His father-in-law died of grief, after reading one of his editorials, and left him $130,000.

OREGON.

The entertainment given by the Oregon City Amateurs last Tuesday evening was a grand success

The printers at the Oregon City Enterprise office contributed $4 to the Greeley Monument Fund

Religious meetings still continue nightly at the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches at Albany

The Commissioners of Marion county have appropriated $400 to pay for a bell for the new Court House.

On Wednesday night Albany was visited by a terrible storm of rain, accompanied by pretty strong zephyrs.

L. Diller has resigned the Recordership of Oregon City and A. C. Bailey has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

The McMinnville Reporter is soon to be much enlarged, and made second to no county newspaper in Oregon. It is a good paper now.

The Lafayette Sabbath School is preparing for an exhibition, the proceeds to be devoted to the purchase of an organ for the use of the school.

The oldest existing Good Templar Lodge in the State is at Jefferson. The highest officer of the same organization resides at the same place, viz: Jacob Conser, G. W. C. T.

In the Washington County Court, yesterday was taken up in the appointment of Road Supervisors and hearing the petition for license to sell liquors in Forest Grove precinct at Cornelius.

An Albany lady, a few days ago, found four little hoodlums playing "seven-up," in the hay loft, and the way she made 'em high low jack-out o' that was a caution to all future juvenile disciples of Hoyle.

We learn from a gentleman just down from St. Joe, that there are strong suspicions against the hired man who was with Mr. Hasbrook, of Willamina at the time he was murdered, and that a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

The Board of Directors of the Washington County Agricultural Society met on Friday, at the Court House in Hillsboro. The premium list was examined, all articles receiving an additional award, especially in the mechanical department. Reports to the press will be sent in due time.

Yamhill county denies her liability for the costs in the case of the State of Oregon vs the McMinnville Ditch Company. The case was begun in Yamhill county and transferred to Marion and tried, where the plaintiff lost, and costs are now to be settled by somebody to the amount of $500.

The Oregon City Enterprise says: "At the last meeting of the Council a resolution was adopted authorizing the payment of $100 to Mr. John Blackwell, Foreman of the Hook & Ladder Company, who was seriously injured at the fire which destroyed the factory, and from the effects of which he has been confined to his bed and unable to work."

The officers of Western Star Lodge, Albany, were installed last Tuesday night. Wm. Staiger, W. C. T; Anna Bentley, W. V. T.; M. M. Hart, W. S; Hattie Luper, W. A. S; B B. Turley, W. T., A. N. Arnold, W. F. S; Nelson Wright, W. C.; D. E. Taylor, W. M.; Evaline Rideout, W. D. M; Jennie Luper, W. I. G.; R Fox, W. O G; Flora Starr, W. R. H. S, Ella Rideout, W. L H. S.

The Lafayette Courier has this: "Mr. R. Malone lately built a house in St. Joe in rather close proximity to a large fir tree, and at length becoming a trifle suspicious of the menacing attitude of his firship, set fire to his trunk, which, in due time, 'niggered' him off, the same falling 'co thrash' across the domicile, smashing stoves, furniture, and everything smashable, to atoms None of the family were in at the time."

From the Register: As the summer approaches, the Directors of the Albany and Santiam Canal Company are making preparations to proceed with its construction. We learn from the President of the Company, L. Elkins, Esq, that Capt. Smith, late Engineer of the Locks at the Falls of the Wallamet, has been employed to thoroughly survey the route from the portion of the Canal already finished to Albany, and that he commenced operations early in the week.

Our Hillsboro correspondent says: "Forest Grove precinct is red hot on the license question. The precinct has been canvassed thoroughly, and the greatest excitement exists. The matter is now being examined in the County Court, and a tremendous turnout of friends on both sides are present, T. H. Tongue for petitioners, and H Jackson and J. T. Scott for remonstrance. A hasty glance at the papers shows a very close vote. The excitement is being felt all over the county.

The Lafayette Courier has the following concerning the wheat market at that place "No little gossip has been indulged in among wheat growers and the community at large concerning the late rise in wheat to one dollar per bushel, and its sudden drop down and the probable failure of the parties purchasing at a dollar to meet all such liabilities. It is said one dollar was paid regardless of instructions from below, and that all paid over 90 cents will be a loss to the purchasing agent here."

The Albany Register says: "The appearance of three large cougars in Sweet Home Valley on last Sunday, afforded the denizens thereof a lively day's chase. The male members of the above named little community seized their firearms, and calling their dogs, vigorously hunted these cougars through the entire day, pressing them closely, but did not succeed in getting away with either of the ferocious brutes. They succeeded, however, in wounding one of them, and driving all of them from the valley into the fastnesses of the mountains"

The Mercury copies the following extract from a letter to Gen. John F. Miller, by General Wheaton "I hope we will not require more men than the regulars now en route. There are indications that "Jack" has been badly hurt and is tired of war. He evidently wants peace, and this fearful snow crowds him some. An unconditional surrender will be my only terms. I told Fairchilds to inform his messenger that if those terms were not speedily accepted he would kill them all if it took us years, but ten day's fighting would finish them."

The McMinnville Reporter has the following account of a horrible murder in Yamhill county On the evening of the 4th inst, about 7½ o'clock, Mr Ben Hasbrook, living up the Willamina, about nine miles from Sheridan, was shot and killed by a man who was found in his granary The particulars, as we learn them, are about as follows The hired man went to the granary, where he found two men They had filed off the staple by which the door was fastened and made an entrance The hired man seized one of the rascals and raised the alarm, whereupon the other thief ran up and struck his partner's antagonist with a knife aiming at his heart, but some books and papers in his breast pocket staid the blow, and not much injury was done to his person At this juncture Mr Hasbrook came to his man's assistance, when one of the villains seized Hasbrook's own shot gun, which was in the granary, and fired the contents, fifteen buck shot, through his body, and he fell on his face without a groan—dead The murderers then departed in haste, and at last accounts, had not been captured, although they had been traced some distance. Suspicion rests on some parties in that section, we understand, and there will probably be arrests made, as the Sheriff has gone there. Mr. Hasbrook was a peaceable, industrious, energetic man. He leaves a wife and young family to mourn his loss.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO FEBRUARY 7

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 —In the Senate, Stevenson gave notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the Pacific Railway Payment bill was rejected yesterday

The Diplomatic Consular Appropriation bill was passed.

The Fortification bill was reconsidered and passed

The Vienna Exposition bill came up, and an amendment providing that no more than $50 000 shall be paid for salaries, and not more than $5,000 to any one person was adopted, and the bill passed

In the House, on motion of Garfield of Ohio, the Senate bill, appropriating $3 000 to defray the expenses of investigation in reference to the election in Kansas, Louisiana and Arkansas, was taken up and passed

An amendment, providing for letter carriers in all places having 20,000 population within postoffice delivery was adopted by a vote of 98 to 78

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—John J. Blair testified before the Poland Committee to-day with regard to the Sioux City, Iowa Falls and Dubuque railroad, giving a full history of the road and Congressional and State legislation in its behalf. He declared not a dollar was ever expended to procure such legislation; not a cent was ever paid to any Congressman or citizen in the way of blackmail He also stated that there was not a railroad crossing the State of Iowa which was worth to day the money it cost to build it.

On motion of Casserly the resolution was agreed, to directing the Secretary and Treasury to transmit the statement of the net earnings of the Union Pacific Railroad and the Central Pacific Railroad for 1871, showing the receipts from the freight and passengers, and the amount of running expenses.

Military Ordered to Suspend Operations against the Modocs

Orders have been issued to the Commander of United States forces operating against the Modoc Indians, to make such disposition of troops as will protect settlers, and to suspend further hostile proceedings against Indians, unless absolutely necessary, until the Commission recently appointed to investigate the causes which led Capt. Jack to war have performed its duties, and the result of its investigation is known.

Miscellaneous.

The funded loan subscriptions in the United States and Europe to day have been so heavy that the Secretary of the Treasury has been compelled to issue a call for one hundred millions of 5 20 bonds of 1862 in advance of closing the books. Additional calls will be issued shortly.

A distinguished priest, speaking of Senator Caldwell's case last evening, said according to all law and precedent the Senate should be bound to declare his seat vacant, although no direct charge of bribery can be proved on him That bribery was used to secure his election is not denied, and the unvarying custom in England has been to declare no election under such circumstances

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The Journal's Washington correspondent says Butler of Massachusetts is working actively for an extra session of Congress, and that it is reported that he is doing so in the interest of Maynard It is understood that if Maynard is elected, Butler will be made Chairman of the Appropriation Committee

The House Committee on Appropriations to-day limited the appropriation for the Government building at Philadelphia to $3 000 000. They also agreed to appropriate $403,300 for appraisers' stores at San Francisco, and $100,000 for observing the transit of Venus.

The Committee completed their action on the Army Appropriation bill It will take about $30,000,000

The aggressive policy upon which the President has determined with reference to Polygamy, means the passage of such laws as will remove all possibility of a conflict of jurisdiction between the Federal and Territorial statutes

Under Justice McKean the grand jury framed indictments for polygamy under the Territorial Mormon statute, but proceeded in the Federal court The ultimate result was that the Supreme court declared all the proceedings unlawful and the United States is practically impotent, legally, to proceed against polygamy under the existing Federal statutes.

Logan's bill, which the President wishes passed substitute for the existing Federal statutes, and may be evaded by the Mormons.

Although military action at present is not intended the President has determined, as a matter of policy, remove all troops from Southern States, and the 4th Infantry has already been moved there. Troops will be stationed on the Plains in a reasonable contiguity to Utah.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

From London.

LONDON, Feb. 6 —In the House of Commons an address in reply to the Queen's speech was moved by Chas Lyttleton who congratulated the House and country on the settlement of disputes with the United States Although the decision was unfavorable to England there is not the slightest ground for impugning the judgment of Geneva Arbitration or the German Emperor No nation should be slow to follow England's example

Disraeli rose and was loudly cheered He said he had heard with alarm many things in the Royal Speech, but he would not in the slightest degree criticise the sovereign and arbitrators who had given awards adverse to England He had approved of the negotiations at Washington, but could not but condemn the live rules adopted. The Government pretended it had followed Palmerston, but that statesman would never have placed England in such a dangerous and undignified position The Geneva judgment showed that the government had been totally wrong.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 8, 1873.

"The Republicans against the World"

In the election soon to be held in Connecticut the Republicans, it appears, are not to have their old-time antagonist in the field against them under its old name. The papers of that State express the opinion that the Democracy will not attempt to make the contest as a distinct party, but will unite with all the elements of opposition that can be organized out of the disaffections in the Republican party, and with these and whatever additional force can be mustered from the local parties, will make a vigorous effort to defeat the Republican candidate for Governor In our western phrase, it is to be "the Republicans against the whole world."

The success of this plan of operations depends upon the strength of the vote that will come to the Democrats from the disaffected members of the Republican party. The Democrats, though formerly in the minority in Connecticut, are certainly a majority now. This proposed alliance with all factions opposed to the Republican rule, indicates unmistakably that they so regard themselves.

If the Democratic party thus confesses its inability to cope with the Republicans in the old Democratic State of Connecticut, what must be its future prospects in the other States? The strong probability is that that party has made its last fight. For a series of years it has had no principles, but through all its misfortunes it was able through the mere prestige of a name that had been associated with many great triumphs, to preserve its organization down to the time of the last Presidential election. But when that contest ended in the Democracy with all its allies being more completely routed than any party had ever been before in the history of American politics, the party could no longer hold together. The Democracy as a national organization will never make another struggle in national politics. Its dissolution is complete. Its power of cohesion could not longer survive the abandonment of its traditional ideas, and it will henceforth be known, only as its old-time adversary, the great Whig party is known, in the history of the dead past.

That there will be a strong and active opposition to the Republican majority in the future cannot be doubted. This will be composed of the same elements that now enter into and form the opposition in Connecticut. It will be an aggregation of all classes that desire the overthrow of the Republicans, with a well defined nucleus of the material which is left of the old Democracy. But such an opposition, while it may achieve some ephemeral successes upon issues purely local or personal, can amount to nothing in a national contest, and to but little in the general elections of the States. Such an opposition never has won a victory before the people of this country, and there is little danger that it ever will. The party that would secure the confidence and command the suffrages of the American people, must have in its platform some-thing more than denunciation of the opposite party. It may oppose much or little in the policy of its adversary. It is a trifling matter what it is opposed to. It will stand or fall finally upon what it is in favor of. The affirmative propositions of a political party are that by which it will be judged. And herein consists the weakness of every scheme and combination for the overthrow of the Republican power. Its opposers can agree upon only one thing, namely, that the Government ought to pass from its hands into their own. Beyond this proposition they are no more at one with each other than with the Republicans They have nothing to offer the people, as a substitute for, or an improvement upon, the policy of the party in power. The only tangible thing in dispute are the emoluments of office. It is not likely the people can be induced to depose the party that has proved itself worthy of every confidence, upon this issue alone.

A Washington dispatch says there is developing in the Senate a very decided opposition to the confirmation of Busteed and Humphreys. They will be remembered by our readers, as the persons who swapped offices a few weeks since. Busteed was District Judge of the United States for Alabama and Humphreys was a justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. By prearrangement both resigned their positions simultaneously, and each was immediately nominated by the President to the place vacated by the other. They seem to have left the Senate out of the calculation when they made their estimate of the net results of the bargain. A failure to confirm their appointments would leave two vacancies and two victims of the most practical joke of the session.

On the 13th of January, Congressman Kelly of Pennsylvania, introduced into the House a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the official conduct of Judge Durell of Louisiana, in connection with the election imbroglio. He is reported to have said in giving his reason for offering the resolution, that while he did not expect to be able to prove anything, still he thought the matter of such importance, in view of the grave charges made against the Judge, as to demand investigation at the hand of Congress. He added that if the charges of usurpation against Durell were true he should be promptly impeached.

On January 13th, Hon. H. W. Corbett introduced in the Senate of the United States a bill "to fix the salary of the United States District Judge of Oregon; which was read twice by its title, referred to the Committee on Judiciary and ordered to be printed. The bill proposes to increase the salary of the District Judge to $4,500 per annum. a measure which will meet with the heartiest approval of the people of Oregon. It has long been felt that the present salary is by no means adequate, and we are glad to hear that Mr. Corbett has taken hold of the matter.

Sheriffs must be endowed with remarkable powers in California. A correspondent of the Sacramento Union writing of the execution of Pancho Valencia, says. "He walked with a firm tread and ascended the steps up the scaffold without assistance, and stood while the priests read prayers. Sheriff Jacobs then read the death warrant and asked Valencia what he had to offer why the execution should not be proceeded with." The response of Valencia to this unique inquiry has not yet appeared.

Victor Emanuel has requested the Italian Parliament to legalize his marriage with Marilori. Whereupon Prince Humbert, his son, having in mind the fact that no such marriage ever occurred, declares that he will leave Italy if the iniquity is permitted. Our sympathies are with Humbert.

As the subject of the weather has been almost monopolized by conversation clubs, a friend suggests a substitute to be used in conversation. He cannot see why arithmetical observations should not be used in place of those of a meteorological nature, so as to render unnecessary such time-worn and utterly useless remarks as "It is very hot, this evening, miss."

"Yes, sir. I think it is hotter than it was this morning."

"I really believe it is, but it's not as hot as it was early last night"

"If it is as hot to-morrow, I don't know what I shall do"

"But I don't think it is possible for it to be hotter than it was yesterday."

We have here something both novel and instructing to the mind. For instance, people of ordinary culture might thus converse.

"Good morning, miss, Nine and eight make seventeen."

"Yes, sir, they do; and three from seventeen leave fourteen."

"And one more will make it fifteen."

"Yes, sir; but seven into fifty-three is very difficult."

The Pall Mall Gazette in the course of an interesting article on short-hand writing, says that when on the decline of ancient Rome there were no longer any thrilling senatorial speeches to report, the short-hand writers betook themselves to the Christian churches which were then beginning to raise their steeples above ground. It is to the stenographers that we owe the acts of the Martyrs, the improvisations of Origen, the works of St. Jerome, who had no fewer than ten short-hand secretaries in his service: those of St. Augustine who had sixteen; and those of St. John Chrysostom who never walked without having a stenographer at his side. After thus powerfully aiding in the propagation of Christianity, the art of short-hand writing entered into a period of decline. The eloquent fathers of the church were no more. Well-fed but prosy bishops had taken their place, and as these reverend gentleman seldom had anything to say that was worth hearing, stenography, by the end of the tenth century had fallen into almost complete disuse.

Hepworth Dixon has commenced writing a history of Catherine of Aragon. In the course of his researches at Alcala de Henores birthplace of the Queen, he visited the palace of the Archbishop of Toledo which has been untenanted for thirty years. In an apartment used as a repository for papers, Mr. Dixon found numerous old documents relating to the Spanish Inquisition. These throw considerable light on the hideous details of the persecution of the secret Jews, who at one time were very numerous in the Pyrenean Peninsula. The papers purport to contain accurate accounts of the trials of persons charged by the Inquisition with the crime of "Judaising." The industrious Englishman will incorporate these accounts in the great work he has undertaken.

On the 27th of January Governor Booth of California, telegraphed Senator Cole, asking if the government would accept two companies of sharp-shooters to be organized in Siskiyou county, with power to elect their own officers, for three months' service against the Modocs. On the 29th Senator Cole replied that the Secretary of War had referred the communication to the President who declined to accept.

The morning's dispatches inform us that Captain Jack is to have a breathing spell. The officer commanding the forces now invading the Modoc fort is ordered to suspend hostilities until the Peace Commission shall have had an opportunity to draw a small salary.

From the Globe of the 14th we learn that Senator Corbett has introduced a bill donating to the State of Oregon the mint building at the Dalles. This action is in accordance with the Senate Joint Memorial adopted by our Legislature at its last session.

The measures taken this year to prevent students at Dartmouth from going out to teach during vacations and parts of terms are stricter than ever. They are now obliged to sign a printed statement declaring that it is absolutely necessary for them to go.

Rochefort, once famous as the peripatetic editor of La Lanterne, and later as a leader in the Paris Commune, is now languishing in prison at Paris, whither he was sent by a Prefect.

In his lecture on "Compulsory Education," delivered in New York city, Henry Ward Beecher advocated female suffrage and the compelling parents to send their children to school.

A Jurist Honored.

ACTION OF THE BAR ON THE RETIREMENT OF JUDGE NELSON.

The Bar of the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, responded en masse, yesterday, to the call for a meeting to take action relative to the retirement of Justice Samuel Nelson from the Bench of the Supreme Court of the United States. On motion of ex-Judge Bosworth, Charles O'Conor was chosen Chairman. Upon taking the chair Mr. O'Conor said, in part:

Brethren of the Bar: The great lawyer who for half a century has been practically the very life and light of our jurisprudence, has retired from active duty. His illustrations of practical justice remain for our enlightenment and will descend to posterity. In these his gifts to man even the present and the future are participants alike. But in some things we are all exclusively his beneficiaries. His magnificent demeanor on the bench was a model of all the judicial graces. In that high place his princely bearing and lion-front inspired every honest suitor with confidence, while it paralyzed the most audacious guilt. These things we have witnessed and will ever remember, but neither tongue nor pen can convey to future times an adequate portraiture of them. These memories and the pleasure of contemplating him in the serenely tranquil retirement which closes his great career. The golden age of our jurisprudence, when Wells and Emmet argued the causes which Kent and Spencer decided, is happily connected in history with all that is now recognized as best and purest by the period which Nelson adorned. Patriotism and professional pride can hope for no more than that the rising lawyers of to-day may sustain and transmit to worthy successors the great fame derived by their class from such high sources and through such a noble channel.—N. Y. Tribune.

Resolutions expressing the sincere admiration and respect of the members of the Bar were passed, after high eulogies on the retiring jurist had been pronounced by leading New York lawyers.

Her advancement as a public writer has been rapid, brilliant and unprecedented, and is altogether due to substantial merit.

CALL FOR A WOMAN SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Multnomah County Woman Suffrage Association, held on the 15th of January, 1873, it was decided to call a mass meeting of the friends of Woman Suffrage in the State of Oregon and Territory of Washington, to be held in Portland on the 14th and 15th days and evenings of February, 1873, in the Oro Fino Hall. The object of this Convention is to organize a State Society, that there may be more united action and influence in the work. Now is the time for firm, persistent, energetic action, and we earnestly urge the friends to make an effort to be present and participate in the deliberations We wish to organize a permanent State Society, to meet once in each year, and we also urge the formation of auxiliary County Societies, to meet whenever they may choose. Eminent speakers and essayists from all parts of the State and Territory are expected to be present and take part in the debate.

The California State Suffrage Society is invited to co operate.

Delegates, or those willing to officiate as such, are requested to forward their signatures at once to the New Northwest for attachment to this call.

An Old Suit Ended.

THE LIABILITIES OF COMMON CARRIERS.

The J. Russell Manufacturing Company brought a suit against the New Haven Steamboat Company for the recovery of the value of a quantity of cutlery, consigned to the plaintiffs from their factory in Massachusetts, and transported by the Steamboat Company from New Haven, arriving here on the morning of the 4th of July, 1866. The goods were placed on the dock, remaining in the custody of the carriers, and were destroyed by a fire occurring on the morning of the 5th of July before daylight.

The question was whether the steamboat company were liable as insurers, or whether their liability as common carriers had ceased before the occurrence of the fire. On a former trial it had been held that they were only liable as wharfingers on proof of negligence. But the Court of Appeals decided that the question whether the consignees had been afforded a reasonable time before the fire to remove the goods should have been submitted to the jury, under the circumstances; it having been shown that consignees of freight by this line did not open their stores or remove their goods on the 4th of July.

That question having now been submitted to a jury, they have decided that the 4th of July is not such reasonable time as the plaintiffs were entitled to for receiving and removing their goods, and that the steamboat company were therefore responsible, and have rendered a verdict of $3,582 for the plaintiffs.

Starr & Ruggles for plaintiffs; Mr. Nash and Judge Pierrepont for defendants.—N. Y. Evening Post, Jan. 15.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

A Georgia negro was overpaid $100 on a check by a bank, and he returned the money. The local paper says this is another evidence that the race can never be civilized.

It is estimated by the London Spectator that there are 60,990 comfortable families in Great Britain, and 710,000 which may be called respectable. The line of comfort is drawn to include all whose houses are assessed at $500 a year, and that of respectability those whose houses are assessed at $100 a year and upwards. Below this last line are seven-eighths of the population.

The almost instinctive epigrammatic sharpness of Irish humor is a characteristic often noticed. An instance of it is given in Sir John Barrington's "Memoirs," in the case of a quarrelsome, fashionable, fighting bully, who is suddenly reported to a convivial company as being killed, having been just shot dead in a duel. "Shot, is he?" exclaimed one of the party; "then by my word he has died a natural death."

William Tells us that the Hibernians are natives of Switzerland. He finds that Berne is in that country among the Alps, and by an easy mental process he comes to the conclusion that the natives of Berne are Bernians, and, further, that as Berne is an elevated city, that they are High Bernians. The branch of the family in Ireland, he thinks, must be offshoots, as the Swiss were always noted for shooting off.

A cup of coffee is a sure barometer, if you allow the sugar to drop to the bottom of a cup and watch the bubbles arise without disturbing the coffee. If the bubbles collect in the middle the weather will be fine. If they adhere to the cup, forming a ring, it will be rainy; and if the bubbles separate without assuming any fixed position, changeable weather may be expected. Try it.

"If I were in California," said a young fop, in company the other evening, "instead of working in the mines, I would waylay some miner with a bag of gold, knock out his brains, gather up the gold, and run." "I think you would do better to gather up the brains," quietly responded a young lady. A man should always secure what he is most deficient in.

A little thing in a Sabbath school was asked by her teacher if she always said her prayers night and morning? "No, miss, I don't." "Why, Mary, are you not afraid to go to sleep in the dark without asking God to take care of you, and watch over you till morning?" "No, miss, I ain't—cause I sleep in the middle."

Considerable sickness is reported at Albany and vicinity.

GLORIOUS NEWS! GLORIOUS NEWS!—The popular and largest Clothing House in the State escaped the great fire, and will therefore sell for the next sixty days their goods at such low rates as to give all a chance to invest, rich or poor. Call and satisfy yourself, as we mean what we say above, and no humbug about it.

A silent disease punishes the patient only, but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance is it worth while to do it? Valuable Invention.—Capt. John Harlow, proprietor of the Portland Box Factory, is the possessor of a patent process by which boards can be prepared to manufacture into boxes of all description, whether circular or square. This gentleman returned from San Francisco a few weeks ago, whither he went to personally inspect the process. If the proper encouragement is extended by the people of this State he proposes to purchase the patent right for Oregon. The process was invented by a gentleman in California, nearly a year ago, who at once applied for and obtained a patent. In all its details, the plan is entirely new, nothing similar having ever been previously devised. The manner of operation is about as follows First, a large block of wood, for instance, 6 feet long and 18 inches square, is procured The block is immersed in an air tight vat or steamer. This receptible contains water which is very strongly impregnated with a certain powerful chemical preparation. After the vat has been closed the preparation is heated to the boiling point by means of steam conveyed in iron pipes. Exposure to this heat for the space of eight hours, is sufficient to render the block of wood as soft and yielding as a piece of fresh cheese. So penetrating are the chemicals employed that every part of the block is reduced to the same condition. While the block is still hot and steaming, it is removed from the vat and placed in a large cutting machine, similar to a shingle cutter. A knife six feet long, one foot in breadth, and as sharp as a razor, is worked by a lever. This knife can be made to ascend and descend very rapidly. The block is placed on a slide, which is caused to move at every stroke of the knife. By this means thin boards can be cut off each time the knife descends. The knife and slide are so guaged that the boards can be cut to any desired thickness—down even as thin as heavy wrapping paper. The steaming process renders the grain of the wood so pliant that the blade in its passage through the block, does not shiver or in any manner injure the texture. These boards can be manufactured into a variety of articles such as veneering, boxes of all descriptions, etc. All kinds of wood can be reduced to a soft condition by the process—oak, pine, ash, fir, hemlock, black walnut, mahogany, laurel, etc. Spruce is the only wood which cannot be used, the chemicals entirely eating up the grain when exposed to its action for any length of time.

The patent right, machine, and all the necessary apparatus can be purchased for about $2,000. Should sufficient encouragement be given the enterprise, Capt. Harlow will procure the right and commence operations at once. The best quality of wood for boxes is the hemlock, of which our forests contain an exhaustless supply. Specimens of the boards and boxes are on exhibition at the Central Market.

Chinaman Hurt.—A gentleman just from St. Joe gives information that a Chinaman employed on the west side railroad was severely injured yesterday evening just beyond Gaston. Before the train, bound for this city, reached Gaston, several Chinamen were observed on a hand car several hundred yards ahead of the locomotive. The signal was sounded at once, and the speed of the train checked to afford the Chinamen an opportunity to get out of the way. The track was some distance above the ground when the train came in sight. It was about two hundred yards before the track approached near enough the ground to enable the Chinamen to leap off with impunity, and lift the hand car from the track. The Chinamen comprehended the situation and worked with might and main to pass the trestle work. The engineer decreased the speed to give them plenty of time to clear the way. One of the Chinamen became needlessly alarmed and leaped off the car while it was under full motion. The track was about ten feet from the ground at that place. As a natural consequence, the Chinaman was hurled headlong to the earth, alighting on his head and shoulders. His companions were badly scared, but were too prudent to imitate his rash example. In a few minutes the danger was over, the trestle work was passed, and the car lifted off the track just as the train thundered by. Passengers who saw the whole affair, state that the Chinaman was unable to rise as the train passed. It is probable his injuries are fatal or very severe.

Improvements Made in 1872.—From the annual report of the City Surveyor, W. S. Chapman, which we publish elsewhere, it can be seen that the following streets have been improved during the past year: G, South First, Eighth, Alder, Yamhill, South Second, F, North First, Columbia, Sixth, Hall, Caruthers, Fourth, and North Fourth, Jefferson, North, Second, Fourth, and College. The total cubic yards of excavation, 67,675 8; cubic yards embankment, 38,596 8; lineal feet of sidewalk laid, 12,344.7; lineal feet of crosswalks, 4,276 8; planked road, 15,440; gutters, 160; aprons, 6. Since the first of January, 1872, permits to the number of 170 have been filed in the Surveyor's office, for the improvement of 1,463,558 square feet of streets.

Course of Lectures.—Last Thursday night O. P. Mason, Esq., delivered the first lecture of a series, on Commercial Law, before the students of the National Business College. The lecturer has the faculty of expressing his thoughts in a comprehensive manner. After a few introductory remarks the speaker dwelt upon the subject of contracts, and showed what was required by law to constitute a legal contract, etc. The lecture was well received by the many students and visitors. The subject for next Thursday evening will treat on the capability of persons to make contracts, the rights of minors, etc. The business public are cordially invited to participate.

Passengers.—The steamer Ajax sailed from San Francisco yesterday for Portland, having on board the following passengers: J. D. Biles, W. C. Darby, C. Mesley, S. D. Sallis, Col. Janes, U. S. A., Wm. Home, F. S. Aiken, H. A. Hillgen, H. F. Suksdorf, W. W. Parker, R. R. Winter, F. E Edbrooke, A. G. White, G. W. Palmer, M. P. Watson, H. L. Bacon, Miss M. Garrott, Capt. Spatts, U. S. N., Mrs. E. F. Foster, P. Arnireaux, P. Gregery, Mrs. H. Welch, Mrs. M. Newman, W. P. Burke, T. J. Winship, A. S. Mercer, wife and three children, W. Campbell, Rev. T. B. Van Horn, U. S. A., Mrs. J. T. Cruse, Miss Dolly Bell, Mrs. B. Gallagher, J. Vardi.

Convention.—At a meeting of the Multnomah County Woman Suffrage Association, held on the 15th of January, 1873, it was decided to call a mass meeting of the friends of Woman Suffrage in the State of Oregon and Territory of Washington, to be held in Portland on the 14th and 15th days and evenings of February, 1873, in the Oro Fino Hall. The object of this Convention is to organize a State Society, that there may be more united action and influence in the work. Eminent speakers and essayists from all parts of the State and Territory are expected to be present and take part in the debate.

Accidentally Shot.—Mr. James Lewis, a young man well-known in this city, while out hunting near Hillsboro the first part of the present week, met with a serious accident by the premature discharge of a shot gun. At the time, Mr. Lewis was standing on a sled with the end of the breech resting on one of the runners. The end slipped, and in the descent the hammer of the fowling piece struck the top of the runner, causing a discharge of the load. The shot took effect in the left arm, inflicting serious injury. We are not able to ascertain the extent of the injuries.

Central School House.—Yesterday we called at the new Central School house, and found a number of carpenters engaged in putting up the desk and seats. But little yet remains to to be done to put the building in readiness to receive the pupil.. All the painting but the finishing touches has been completed. The desks and seats will be put in position by this evening, and everything will be in complete trim for the formal dedication ceremonies, which will take place in the large assembly room of the building next Monday evening.

Not so Unlucky.—Many holders of tickets in the German lottery were unlucky enough to draw blanks, while a few drew valuable prizes. Sheriff Caywood and his Deputy, Mr. Sewall were both holder of tickets. Although they did not draw fortunes, still they were blessed with a tolerable fair measure of fortune. Caywood drew a plump ham of bacon, and Sewall captured a good table cloth Two very important articles towards a "square meal," and not unpleasant for a hungry stomach to contemplate either.

Directors and Officers.—The Odd Fellows' Hall Association have elected the following officers to serve for the next year: Directors, J. Kenworthy, of Orient Lodge; C. A. Dolph and J. M. Caywood, of Samaritan Lodge; J. W. Whalley and A. G. Walling, of Hassalo Lodge, C. von Wintzingerode and J. Kraemer, of Minerva Lodge; President, A. G. Walling, Secretary, Ward S. Stevens.

Grand Ball.—Last evening the Washington Guard held their regular monthly meeting. Among other business transacted, the Guard determined to hold a grand ball on Washington's birth day. In consequence of the 22d coming on Saturday, the ball will be held on Friday evening, 21st inst. A number of committees were appointed by the company, and extensive arrangements are being made to have the affair prove one of the fashionable events of the season. Splendid music will be furnished, and nothing spared to make the occasion a grand success.

Prow and Stern.—Two very large, heavy pieces of timber were brought from the Cowlitz yesterday on the steamer Rescue. Those timbers are intended to be placed at the bow and stern of the new steamer which is soon to be commenced at the boneyard for the O. S. N. Co.

For Victoria.—Thirteen head of cattle were sent to Kalama yesterday by the Fannie Troup, destined for Victoria via the Northern Pacific Railroad. The cattle were in fine condition and to replenish the depleted markets at Victoria.

Arrived.—The bark Penang and schooner Katie Heron arrived from down the river in tow of the tug Varuna last night at 9.30 o'clock. The Penang came in ballast from China, and the Katie Heron from Tillamook with produce.

More Munitions.—The steamer Vancouver brought over yesterday from the post about ten tons of munitions of war. These stores will be forwarded by rail this morning to Roseburg, and from thence to the "lava beds."

Sprightly.—Considerable activity has been manifested in the matrimonial market thus far during the present month. Up to yesterday there had on an average been issued from the County Clerk's office one license a day.

Received.—In the Commissioners Court yesterday, the annual report of Wm. Ryan, Supervisor of Road District No. 2, was received and accepted, and the Supervisor allowed $2 for extra services rendered the District.

On the 14th December James Bradley was driving a herd of seventy-one cattle across the Pon d'Oreille river, W. T., on ice. An earthquake broke the ice to pieces, drowning all but twenty-one of the cattle.

Circuit Court.—The regular term of the Circuit Court will convene at the Court House on next Monday morning. Jurors summoned for the term are requested to be promptly on hand at 9 o'clock, A. M.

Detained.—Mr. H. L. Herman, editor and proprietor of the Catholic Sentinel is at present quite ill. In consequence of this fact, the paper will not be able to reach its readers as early this week as usual.

Sunday Evening Lecture.—Mrs. Duniway's lecture on Sunday evening in Oro Fino Hall, will be upon "Woman and the Bible," or "The Special Mission of Man."

Monthly Meeting.—The German Aid Society meets every first Tuesday of the month at the house next to the corner of First and Stark streets, up stairs.

School Exercises.—Some pleasant exercises were held at the Central School House yesterday afternoon consisting of singing, declamations, etc.

Adjourned Meeting.—An adjourned meeting of the German Aid Society will be held at their rooms on next Tuesday evening, 11th inst.

Stationary Hose.—A stationary hose cart was being constructed yesterday on the O. S. N. Co.'s wharf for "Cultus No. 6."

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Gussie Telfair is due.

Steamer coming—due on the 10th.

Music this evening at the Central Market.

Weekly soiree at Cardinell's Dancing Academy this evening.

Mrs. General W. T. Sherman is opposed to the suffragists.

Interesting sermons will be delivered at the Churches to-morrow.

The schooner Gotama is on her way from San Francisco for this port.

No report of the Geo. S. Wright now seven days overdue from Sitka.

The new silver dollar will be precisely equal in value to a five franc piece.

This is the ladies' day—providing the weather clerk don't make things disagreeable.

The switch on the street railway between Salmon and Taylor streets is being repaired.

Weekly Oregonian now ready at the business office. A big number. Be sure and get a copy.

The schooner Oregonian is on berth at San Francisco. She will have dispatch for Portland.

The next term of Portland Academy and Female Seminary will begin on Monday, 10th inst.

A Seth Thomas, calender clock from B. L. Stone', has been put up in No. 2's engine house.

How is it the Young Men's Christian Association have not given us a course of lectures this winter?

The lady who is followed by a long train (of followers) needn't be astonished at the bustle behind her.

The store room at the northwest corner of Front and Alder streets is being "reconstructed" for a new occupant.

A native Alaskan is being educated at Ann Arbor, Michigan, to return to that Territory an arbor-can missionary.

Wm. Barry, the favorite comedian, has resumed his professional duties. He is now playing at the California Theater.

Jos. Kohn & Co. paid twenty-five dollars a few days ago for a cable dispatch—an order for a special quality of gloves.

Sleighing in this vicinity can be put down as a grand failure. That vehicle has been "shelved" during the whole winter.

Mr. J. H. Lyon, an old and tried fireman, has retired from duty in an official position, and will hereafter be a "high private" in the ranks.

The "conflag" swept out a number of low "dives" and now these institutions are scarce hereabouts. The morals of the city are improving evidently.

"Business has improved fifty per cent. since we commenced advertising freely," says a writer to a friend in this city. Business men should make a note of this and take pattern.

The postoffice folks are beginning to discuss the contents of numerous embossed envelopes now passing through the mails. Valentine day is near at hand, and is the cause of it.

The steamer Olympia, running as an opposition boat between San Francisco and Humboldt Bay, has been bought off. Passage and freight rates will be advanced to such a figure as will repay the enterprising proprietors of the old line for the great expense necessarily incurred. This is the old, old story.

A Madison street dame ordered a bustle at one of our stores on Wednesday. In the evening the clerk was sent to the house with it. Her husband appeared at the door and asked his errand. "I have an attachment for your wife," said the polite youth. That was all he said that was intelligible. But he is going to learn a trade now, as clerking is so effeminate.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

H. Sinsheimer not only rents pianos at low rates but attends to keeping them in tune into the bargain. All ye who want to buy a piano, organ or anything in his line, step in at his place and select. He advertises.

Chas. Bray and Tom Parrott who are too well known in this community to need mention, have associated and will attend to orders for music and give lessons in the art if they are advised though the places designated in the advertisement.

B L. Stone gives final notice that his stock of watches, clocks, jewelry &c., must be closed out at once and in order to do so will offer his goods, and a handsome assortment he has too, at cost. Such a chance will not be presented soon again.

Martin, C M. holds himself in readiness to forward all orders for anything in his line, to all quarters of the city. He is bound to keep ahead in everything and to satisfy yourself in the matter, call on him at his new location, corner of Yamhill and First streets If he can't furnish you with the article you desire, then you can reckon on not getting it in the city His prices have been adjusted to suit all classes. Take a peep at the stock in store and fail not to stop to-night. Prompt attention will be paid to your wants.

OREGON AND ITS PIONEERS.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The pioneers of our State often meet with many unjust criticisms from strangers and sojourners, who little comprehend or desire to know the history of the early settlements of the shores of the Northwest. They have been denominated Webfeet, and censured with inactivity and lack of enterprise. But, we think, if the past would be taken into consideration, the accusation of lethargy would not be sustained; and in order to arrive at a correct conclusion, we must, even now, when we glide on in our prosperous career, with the avenues of commerce open to trade and travel, glance back at our past history, and see through what difficulties a permanent settlement was effected in our State, and what obstacles had to be overcome before the sustenance of life could be obtained from our soil; and from these reflections and following back the track of history to its primitive starting point on our shores, form a juster and more correct opinion of those who led the van of civilization and opened up the wilderness of this far western clime to immigration and enterprise.

The first settlers of our State were giants of endurance, who, as early as 1838, started over the American desert, and, after months of weary toil, arrived in the Wallamet valley, and started the nucleus of a State which was destined to take her place in the constellation of States forming the grand Federal Union.

Immigration continued to pour in during succeeding years, and not of the refuse of the Mississippi States, but some of the most daring sons of the forest, who seemed to have no other motto but "Farther West;" and, who, by their courage and endurance, had been the cause of opening up the places of their birth to agricultural prosperity and commercial supremacy.

Their hardships and sufferings are not necessary to relate. They are chronicled upon the pages of our history and treasured in the memories of our pioneers. The forests frowned and the savages thirsted for blood; but there was no retracing of steps, and the woodman's axe felled the trees and the unerring rifle sent the red man to his last hunting ground. But we intended only to take a glance over the buried past, and we knew that space will not admit of detail. Few among us but have heard all these recounted by themselves. And we pass from this part of the just encomium, that Oregon's pioneers deserve honor from her sons; and that among the pioneers of the world they stand not in the lowest rank. We can now look upon our smiling valleys, our grand and commerce-bearing rivers and the grand old retreats of Nature's solitude, and thank God for the Webfoot of pioneer days.

But most of this censure comes from our Southern sister,—the Eldorado of the Pacific—California; and we do think it comes very ill-timed. Oregon has had to fight against the obstacles of nature, while California reveled in the balmy breaths of evergreen valleys and verdant landscapes. Oregon had dense forests to be felled—California beautiful uplands. The gold fever of 1849-50 drew the most enterprising men from Eastern cities, and gaining the specie from the rich products of the mines, enterprise had a stimulus and commerce soon stretched out its hands to its devotees. Oregon had to rely upon the products of the soil, and in order to make the soil produce of its abundance, a vast amount of labor had to be performed, and our pioneers have nobly performed their work; and now, our State stands second to none in fertility. Not to say, that our valleys did not always possess very fertile land, but the immense forests which line our rivers had to be felled before the farmer's plow could be brought into requisition, and it required Herculean efforts to accomplish this.

Taking into consideration the greater amount of manual labor performed by the Oregon pioneer, than by the early Californian, and the amount of capital constantly at the disposal of the latter, the candid observer cannot but come to the conclusion that our pioneers have done nobly, and our development has not been retarded by lack of enterprise in our midst, but impeded by natural obstacles.

PIONEER.

Portland Free Discussion Club.—We understand that this club has decided to hereafter hold public meetings every Sunday at 3 P. M. in Nonpareil Hall, corner of First and Madison streets, to which the public are invited. Seats free and collections taken to defray expenses. The proceedings of the last meeting would seem to indicate that the members have rather musical times at their discussions, when the proper point in the order of business is reached. Prof. Chaney was asked to "take the lead," which he did by propounding for discussion the following extremely modest conundrum:

"The evils and abuses of society: What can be done to ameliorate or remedy the same?"

The Professor maintained that Fashion was one of the great evils; that fashion was everywhere tyrant, crushing its victims by tens of thousands, sending unhappiness, misery and disgrace into home circles which would have otherwise been virtuous, happy and contented. He charged that the popular churches fostered fashion, and that until the churches either reformed their teachings, or were dethroned from power, no remedy could be suggested for this crying evil. Under these circumstances, he felt it a duty which he owed to humanity to oppose the churches.

Mr. Sylvester followed, expressing his astonishment that Prof. Chaney should be opposed to people dressing nicely and looking well. The speaker could see nothing wrong in ladies ornamenting themselves in fine clothes, decked out in costly jewelry and attending church on Sunday, but thought it was a very beautiful sight.

Mr. Stewart was of the opinion that society was greatly afflicted by the combination of capital against labor and the establishment of powerful monopolies. Control was thus thrown into the hands of the few, to the injury of the many, the whole tendency of which was to make the rich richer, and the poor poorer. His remedy was for the masses to combine and co operate. He recommends the establishment of a mutal store, the stock to be owned and held in shares by the customers.

Mr. Turnbull, a visitor from East Portland, was tired of this howl against capitalists. The capitalists come with their money, to build railroads and develope the resources of the country. The farmer is enabled to get his produce to market at less cost, while his lands are doubled and quadrupled in value. Then why this howl against capitalists.

At 7½, Sunday evening, Prof. Chaney will lecture before the Club on "Physical life, and life eternal."

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Morning and evening services at the Congregational Church, conducted by the pastor, J. D Eaton. Topic for the morning, "Praise the Praiseworthy."

The subject of the evening service to morrow at the Unitarian Church will be "The Substantial Agreement of the Christian Church and the Hope of Unity." The public are cordially invited.

Religious services in the Norwegian language will be held next Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock in the Scandinavian Evangelic Lutheran Church, East Portland, and in the same place at 1:30 P. M., in English. Rev. A. Fridrichsen, pastor.

To morrow evening, Rev. A. R. Medbury, Pastor of the Baptist Church, will discuss "The Family: its Divine origin, the blessings it confers, and the dangers that threaten it"—a subject suggested by the numerous divorce cases now pending in the Courts of this county.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Freeland is traveling professionally on the Sound.

Q L. Hogberg, Esq., formerly of this city, is now in Sweden.

Dr. J. C. Hawthorne of East Portland, is at present unable to leave his room in consequence of illness.

Hon. John F. Miller, of Salem, and George L. Greathouse, the newly appointed traveling agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., are in the city.

W. S Ladd, Esq., we regret to learn is still confined to his room with illness. His numerous friends will be gratified to learn of his early convalescence.

Yesterday we called at the new office of the Home Shuttle Sewing Machine in the Odd Fellows' Temple, corner First and Alder streets, which is fitted up in splendid style. Mr. Travor and his assistant were busy filling orders for this popular machine, which has reached, what seems to be, the point of perfection among sewing machines, improvements having been made from time to time, containing all that can be desired for a family machine From the supply on exhibition in the large sale room—three times the size of the old office on Front street occupied before the fire—we conclude that the Home Shuttle still continues to lead its competitors.

Not every one can be President, but all can buy SILVER TIPPED Shoes for their children, and thereby lessen their Shoe bills two thirds.

For sale by all Dealers.

Can any Medicine do More?

The art of changing the base metals into gold has not been discovered, but the happy results of a discovery infinitely more important are familiar to the community, and have been so for the past twenty years. To exchange debility for vigor, sickness for health, apathy for energy, gloom for cheerfulness, is a much more desirable operation than to transmute lead into the root of all evil. And this is what Hostetter's Stomach Bitters accomplish, and have been accomplishing daily, ever since their introduction. Dyspepsia, billiousness, nervous affections, constipation, intermittent fevers, rheumatism, sick headache and general debility are no longer the bug-bears that they were a fifth of a century ago. The Bitters, taken as a protective medicine, prevent them, and taken as a remedy cures them, and the people know it. Hence their overshadowing reputation and enormous sale. The fame of the great vegetable specific is over on the march, and at a pace that no competitor can live. It is to-day the foremost medicine of its class in the civilized world. Every now and then attempts are made to rival it, and sometimes a nostrum concocted in the idle hope of sharing its popularity, has a brief spurt of apparent success But it is all illusion One by one they sink like stones in the sea, while the great tonic, whose celebrity has been the cause of these blind ventures, continues to ride on the topmost wave of public favor, unapproached and unapproachable.

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving and Beautifying the Human Hair. To Prevent its Falling Out and Turning Grey.

A well-preserved Head of Hair, in a person of middle age, at once bespeaks refinement, elegance, health and beauty. It may truly be called Woman's Crowning Glory, while men are not insensible to its advantages and charms. Few things are more disgusting than thin, frizzly, harsh, untamed Hair, with head and coat covered with Dandruff. Visit a barber and you feel and look like a new man. This is what LYON'S KATHAIRON will do all the time. The charm which lies in well placed Hair, Glossy Curls, Luxuriant Tresses, and a Clean Head, is noticeable and irresistible.

"One Thousand Ems."

BY WILLIAM LLOYD BORNE

Resolved, That we ask of our fellow-craftsmen (many of whom now scattered over the country, have, like ourselves, worked either with or for him during the forty years gone by) to set up, on Monday Feb. 3, 1873, the 62d anniversary of Mr Greeley's birth, 1,000 ems, and give the receipts for the same to be expended in making and erecting the statue—the money to be forwarded to the President of New York Typographical Union No 6, No 22 Duane st, New York City, of which Union Mr Greeley was the first President.—Resolution of the N. Y. Typographical Union No. 6

Let the type click!
Electric keynote of the Art Divine,
That gives all languages a common sound,
And one by one, quick dropping into line,
Tell the sad news to earth's remotest bound.
Let them fall gently as our tear-drops fall—
Let them fall silent as we whisper low—
We come with reverence at the tender call,
To bring a tribute of the love we owe.

His hand is still!
The busy hand that wrought so long and well
And builded type by type, and page by page,
The thoughts that others thought (that on him fell,
To make him stronger for his age.)
Is still!
The last type set is grander for the setting!
The last sad line sublimer for the fretting!
And where he stood and wrought
Dull type to wondrous thought,
We linger as we mark the spot—
Sacred and dear beyond our heart's forgetting.

His voice is still!
The earnest pleading for the weak and lowly!
The lift and love-work of a mission holy!
Teaching the law of Love—
Teaching the love of Law—
Speaking for Truth and Right,
Striking with giant might,
Breaking the shackles of Oppression's night!
He pointed upward to the sons of Labor,
And bade them toil with Faith, and Hope, and Trust,
But spurned the glories of the bloody sabre,
And would have crushed it into dust.
And with his mighty Pen
He traced the burning thought, and millions heard
And caught the soul-fire of his blazing word.

Let the type click!
One thousand ems of love's endearing letters!
One thousand ems by love's ten thousand setters!
In the full sunlight of the noon—
In the sweet Freedom of the boon
He helped to give to millions in their fetters!
In the fair beaming of the morning sun,
Let the dear task of faithful hands be done—
Life's early morning saw his task begun!
Or at the evening hour,
When sunset glories bathe the earth,
Build the type tribute to illustrious Worth;
Or when the shadows fall
In silence while the world is still,
Build to his name with all your artist skill,
Whose "Busy Life" was "Work," and "Wait," and Will.

Let the type click!
O Homage Hands, that keep the art immortal!
A Brother passed within the mystic portal—
The Hero-Worker of his age,
Has left his imprint on the page.
Bold Utterer of bolder thought,
Which millions of his fellows caught—
Great Toiler in the Truth's domain,
Whose earnest life was not in vain—
We bring the tribute of One Thousand Ems
Speaking of Peace, Love, Hope—a thousand gems,
That shall outlive earth's proudest diadems.

A HUNCHBACK STORY.

Once upon a time, in the merry old days, there dwelt in the town of Lille, in France, a hunchbacked tailor, very little, very deformed, very bad tempered, and very jealous. His wife was a complete slave to his whims and caprices, and, between his bad temper and his jealousy, her life was a burden to her.

They lived in a little, narrow and steep street, near the river, and the poor wife knew neither peace nor happiness.

Now it happened one holiday, when her lord had gone out to carouse with a party of friends she sat disconsolate in the doorway, sighing and thinking of her happy youth-time, when, with other village maidens, carolling through the meadows, or at the rustic festivals, she sang almost from morn till eve; and, groaning in spirit as she compared it with her present weary existence, it happened that the sounds of singing came to her ears, and, looking downward, she saw on the bridge that crossed the river three little hunchbacks, fantastically dressed and very much resembling each other, singing away as merrily as if there was not an unhappy wife in the world. They were evidently wandering minstrels who sang for their livelihood; and their song pleased her, for it reminded her of the joyous days of her youth, when she herself, with light heart and cheery voice, sang gleeful songs.

Should she call them in to sing to her, and join her voice with theirs? Her husband would not be back for some hours, she thought; she hesitated and longed; and at last she made signals to the hunchbacks to come up to the house.

They promptly and gladly came; the tailor's wife set a good pasty before them, gave them a stoup of wine, and then for an hour, they had such a merry bout of singing, and such a happy time together, as the tailor's dwelling had never known.

Then—for the hunchbacks were hearty topers—she set out to go to the hostelry for another measure of wine; she had hardly left the house before she saw her husband at the foot of the long and hilly street, making for home, and she could see by his gait that he was the worse for liquor.

She fled hurriedly back in the greatest dismay; for this little hunchback was so furiously jealous, and of so savage a temper, that she trembled for her life if he should find a man in the house. And to discover them there, "Saints protect me!" she cried.

She quickly informed the three hunchbacks of her difficulty; and they, being timid and fearful little fellows, shared her alarm.

What was to be done? To go out of the house by the front door was now too late, and, alas! there was no back door!

There was, however, a large cupboard in the room, with three compartments, each big enough to hold one of the little men; and they, willingly enough, were crammed in by the frightened wife, and hidden by the cloths and garments of the tailoring trade which were kept in the cupboard—she promising to release them as soon as her husband left the house again.

They were scarcely concealed, and the doors closed, when the husband entered.

"What's the matter with you? What are you frightened about?" he cried, in a high, shrill, angry voice.

"Nothing, my love," said she, still trembling; "I'm sure I've no reason to look pale!"

"There's a reason for you to look red, then!" said he, giving her a smart cuff on the ear, and laughing hoarsely at his rough wit.

You may be sure the three hunchbacks were heartily glad they were out of this cruel man's way, and they all three quaked, timorous souls as they were, lest he should discover them.

The bewildered and frightened wife vainly tried several little feminine devices to induce her lord to return to his fellow-carousers; but he stopped and stopped, and supped and supped, and scolded and scolded, and sneered and sneered, and jangled and jangled, till darkness set in, and the poor wife was almost beside herself; while, as to the hunchbacks, shut up in that stifling little prison all the time, one trembles to think of them.

At last, after vespers, Master Tailor struts out again, and when he was fairly out of sight, the distracted little woman ran to the cupboard, and with shaking fingers opened the first compartment.

"Come out quickly!" she cried, "my husband is gone."

No answer.

"Quick, quick!" she cried, "are you asleep?"

No answer.

She tore away the clothes and garments, and the poor little hunchback number one fell dead in her arms.

Like a woman in a dream, she feverishly opened the other compartments, and, in another moment, knew that she was alone in the house with three dead men, of whose murder she might be accused! "Good Virgin! Holy Virgin! Blessed Virgin!" she screamed, and fell on her knees in terror and supplication. "What a misfortune to fall upon me, only because I wished to hear a little music? What will become of me? The Lord deliver me from hunchbacks! If this is discovered, the provost, who hangs men and brains women as if they were beasts of the field, will not spare me! Holy Virgin, how unhappy I am!"

And as she lamented, she went to the door and found, sitting upon the step, a stout water-carrier of the town, who, having nothing to do, and nothing to drink, sat stupidly staring at the moon. A sudden idea struck the luckless woman. "O! my friend," said she; "will you do me a service?"

"Yea! an' if you pay me!" said the honest fellow.

"I'll give you a silver crown."

"What must I do?"

"I'll tell you. There has come into my house a villainous little hunchback, to rob and perhaps murder me in the night. He hid himself in the cupboard, and there he has died like a poisoned rat. Now, all I want is to get rid of the body."

"Is it all?" said the sturdy but simple water-carrier. "I'll soon do that for you. Give me a sack."

The sack was found, the dead packed and hoisted on the strong shoulders of the water carrier, and in a very short time the poor hunchback was again on the bridge where, a few hours previously he had been singing so merrily, a heavy plunge, and—good-by, doomed hunchback!

Meanwhile, the good dame, inspired by necessity, the mother of invention, had placed hunchback number two in the compartment just vacated by one; and when the simple-minded carrier came back for his crown, "Oh, no!" she cried, "you have let him escape, and he is back, through the help of evil spirits, doubtless, in his cupboard again."

"What?" said he, scratching his thick head.

"Look!" said he, opening the cupboard.

"There he is, sure enough! Well, to be sure, that's odd. I surely threw him into the river, and it's deep enough by the bridge there. He must have hopped out again when I turned away. Well, I'll drown him this time!" and taking up number two, he marched off again, not at all pleased with his double trouble.

And now for number three. The dame dragged the dead body into the kitchen, and placed it in a sitting posture near the fire; and she had hardly achieved her task before the carrier returned with his empty sack, and demanded his pay.

"I will give it thee willingly!" she cried, "but first, wilt thou not drink a measure of cider?"

"That will I!" cried the water-carrier, who was athirst with his labors.

"Prithee, go into the kitchen and draw for thyself."

Promptly he went, and promptly enough he shouted with wonder, to see that slippery hunchback back again before him, and warming his obstinate toes, that would not be drowned, at the glowing fire.

"Tail of the devil!" he cried; and the dame, with well-feigned fear, ran into the kitchen, and presently added her cries of alarm to his.

At last recovering his fright, the honest carrier cried out.

"Never fear!" It shall never be said that Jean Tresmouillart hath been overcome by an accursed hunchback! I'll drown you, my friend, this time, be sure on't, and I warrant me you shall lie at the bottom of the river like a dead dog!" and angrily seizing him he strode off to the bridge, and for the third time cast his enchanted burthen into the flood, watching the water to see if he reappeared.

As may be readily credited, he did not come up again, and our water-carrier returned to the house growling but contented.

"There is your crown, good man," said the dame, "and well you have earned it. And, indeed, 'twas with a thankful heart she paid him, glad to be freed from her perilous plight.

The water-carrier went lumbering down the street, musing, as far as in him lay, on the strange adventure that had befallen him, and crossing himself repeatedly, as he thought of the impish hunchbacks.

He had just reached the foot of the long street, when, whom should he spy coming jauntily towards him, in the best of humor, and singing lustily, but the tailor husband of the good dame on the hill!

"Horns and nails of the devil!" he cried, suddenly stopping to stare at the apparition. "Three times, hunchback of hell, have I thrown thee into the river, and three times hast thou come up again! Thinkest thou to flout and defeat me like this? If I do not finish thee this time call me not Jean! I'll break thy villainous arms and legs, and we'll see then if thou wilt swim!"

And, leaping upon the astounded little tailor, he did belabor and maltreat him with so much fury and vigor, that, very soon, there was no life left in him, and so quickly was he dispatched by the angry Jean, that he had not even time to cry for help. Up he went on the sturdy shoulders of the water-carrier, and in a moment more he splashed into the dark and rolling waters.

"For the fourth time, thou accursed goblin!" cried Jean, who had never in his life so wrestled with the evil one, as he thought. Again he wended his way to the house.

"What dost thou want?" said the dame; "did I not pay thee thy crown?"

"That didst thou; but he came back again!"

"Who?"

"The demon hunchback! I met him at the foot of the street, coming here, as it seems; and I know then that he was an imp, and if I did not vanquish him, he would destroy me! so I fell upon him, tooth and nail, and beat him, and broke him, and strangled him—drowned him over again; and I swear by my patron saint that this time he is done for, and that he will never trouble thee again!"

Then the dame comprehended that it was her cruel little husband who was thus disposed of, and in her heart she grieved not, as indeed why should she?

"My friend," said she to Jean, "I give thee one crown for thy trouble with the first three hunchbacks; I give three crowns for thy trouble with the last one!" as she gave him the money, which well contented him, and very well contented was the dame.

In three days after that time she was happy again in her own village, and in another year she had no villainous bad-tempered hunchback for a husband, but a good looking straight-limbed peasant; and they bought a hide of land and a cottage with the tailor's savings, and lived happy ever afterward, though the new husband often wondered why his wife would not cross a certain bridge, when they sometimes journeyed to and from the ancient town of Lille. And the chronicler testifieth that this a true story.

The Commercial Herald of the 31st has the following in reference to Money matters in San Francisco:

It is disagreeable to record continued tightness in our local Money market, but such is the fact. It was expected that some relief would be felt by the close of January, but those hopes were not realized. The moneys paid into the city and State treasuries for taxes remained there as completely shut out from circulation as if they were in the bottom of the ocean. To increase the difficulty, our ablest lawyers are unable to define exactly what the law is governing mortgages, and so long as this doubt exists, our savings banks decline to furnish accommodation on that sort of security, insisting on bonds or other collaterals readily converted into cash. The demands upon their means, which are not plethoric just now, are many and pressing, and with a clearly expressed statute respecting mortgages, they could place large amounts very readily. A great deal of money is yet locked up in wheat, but this is about balanced by the payments received for grain exports. It has been alleged that large sums were sent from this city to New York to obtain a controlling interest in Pacific Mail stock. There may be some truth in this and if so, it will account in a measure, for the stringency in our market. The Mint is very actively at work coining, while country debtors are making prompt responses to their city creditors, which go to keep the market in something like working order. No change has occurred in rates of interest, commercial banks requiring 1@1¼ per cent per month, as usual, and the savings institutions furnishing cash for 9@12 per cent per annum, on acceptable collaterals.

Produce Market.

We notice in a San Francisco exchange that 260 tons of choice Oregon Wheat were sold in that market last week at $1 95@1 97½ per cental and the same papers say "the market has fallen from $2 15 down to $2 or less for bark-white shipping." Our own market continues without important change, and quotations are given at $1 65 by shippers, though a little advance might be obtained at the mills for choice lots. We are not in a position to state with certainty the amount now in hands of exporters here, but do know the fact that very large quantities are coming to tide water daily. It is claimed that enough was purchased several days ago and stored at Harrisburg by one of our exporting firms to load two of the vessels now here, and that the other ships in port have their cargoes already at command.

As many of our people believe we are governed by the prices which prevail in San Francisco, we copy the following from the Market Review, a leading commercial journal published in that city:

The Wheat market is at present in a very dormant state, yet the export movement continues with uninterrupted vigor. The reason of this is that exporters, for the most part, chartered their vessels some time since to arrive, and at that time secured the Wheat by purchase, to fill their English orders, and report its execution within the limited time specified; consequently, buyers are few and prices have fallen materially, while freights to the United Kingdom keep up to high figures. The last charter to Liverpool direct of which we have knowledge was at £4 12s 6d. The Flour market is far from active, yet prices are well sustained, chiefly by reason of the great reduction in price of Mill Offal, which more than counterbalances the decline in Wheat. Barley and Oats move off rather sluggishly, the stock of the former large, while that of the latter is light. Corn is plentiful, and rules low. Beans are scarce and high. Potatoes are in large stock and with continued free receipts from Humboldt Bay, prices rule low. Wool, Hides and Tallow are unchanged in values.

Some very large transactions in Wheat have lately taken place in San Francisco which are thus noticed in a paper of that city: "At about the date of our last issue, an important Wheat purchase was consummated by one of our leading export buyers, believed to be the largest bona fide transaction ever made in California, if not in the United States. The Wheat was all in city warehouse, was of uniform good shipping quality, and was the property of Schollo Brothers, having been purchased by them in lots during the fall and low prices. The sale consisted of 12,000 tons, valued at $505,000. The buyer assured us that he believed it to be the largest transaction of the kind on record, not, of course, taking into account the large time purchases, on paper, common in Chicago and other Western cities, where the 'differences' are adjusted but no grain actually handled. Once before, during the current season, a large English order was placed in the hands of this same resident wheat buyer, the magnitude of which at the moment he failed to realize. It was for the purchase of 20,000 tons Wheat for export, the value of which approximated $1,000,000. These are large transactions for a city that had, twenty five years ago, scarcely an existence; and yet what wonders have been wrought here since 1855, when California shipped her first breadstuffs, and then less than the bulk of 50,000 bbls Flour, or in 1850, only 20,000 bbls Flour and 123 sks Wheat. Now see what we have done in seven months of the harvest year of 1872-3. We have, to date, exported the equivalent of 400,000 tons of wheat, and freight engaged and vessels loading sufficient to swell the aggregate to 500,000 tons by the 1st of April ensuing."

From the above it will be seen that, however much prices here may be affected by those of San Francisco, our supply of, or failure to supply that market with any or all of our surplus will have but little effect there, owing to the inconsiderable portion of their demand which we could fill. Oregon productions are fast attaining a reputation for their good quality and are being more sought after, yearly, but the amount is insignificant in quantity when we compare them with some other countries, and it is more folly for anybody here to assume that we can control the markets of the world, or even sensibly affect them by "bulling" or "bearing" our own.

By inquiry to-day, we find that prices are without important change. The receipts continue to be full, while the demand for local consumption and shipment is quite encouraging.

ADVERTISING

Has created many a new business;
Has enlarged many an old business;
Has revived many a dull business;
Has rescued many a lost business;
Has saved many a failing business;
Has preserved many a large business;
And insures success in any business.

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in dull times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost."

ADVERTISE YOUR BUSINESS.
KEEP YOUR NAME BEFORE THE PUBLIC.
JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING INSURES A FORTUNE.
IF BUSINESS IS DULL, ADVERTISE.
IF BUSINESS IS BRISK, ADVERTISE.

To Sufferers:

THE ABOVE ESTABLISHMENT HAS BEEN opened for the treatment of all Chronic and Private Diseases, in males as well as females, where all who are suffering from any of those dreadful ailments can find relief.

Young men having weakened and injured their constitutions by secret habits, need have no fear in calling and consulting me, as all communications are strictly confidential, and sure of a permanent cure where treatment is followed.

Special attention given to the treatment of stricture, and to all who are suffering from such, I can warrant a cure.

Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Piles, Dropsy, Cancers, and all other ailments successfully treated.

To Ladies who are dragging out a life of misery, on account of debility, sterility, menstruation, and many other diseases peculiar to the sex, can find relief by calling.

The celebrated FEMALE REGULATOR PILLS sent free by mail to any address on receipt of $5 00 per box. Certain and sure in all cases.

Office consultation free of charge. All communications strictly confidential. Office hours, 11 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M. DR. C. G. GLASS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of those horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat disease that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian. ly6d6t

CITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Ordinance No. 1274.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE TIME and manner of improving that part of G street lying between the west line of North Sixth street, and the west line of North Thirteenth street.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The proposed improvement of that part of G street lying between the west line of North Thirteenth street shall be completed as hereinafter provided on or before the first day of June, 1873.

Section 2. The surface of the street shall be cleared of all planks, timber or other obstacles or perishable material (sidewalks crosswalks and plank roadways of the proper width and grade excepted). If the obstructions are not removed by the owners of the adjacent lots within three days from the service of notice by the Street Commissioner, they shall be removed by and become the property of the contractor.

Section 3. The improvement shall consist of grading the roadway the full width between the lines of the walks' outer line and laying a plank roadway ... feet width with box gutters across the street at ... crossings, and a suitable bridge across ... creek, according to plans to be furnished by the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Section 4. The work to be done and material furnished shall correspond with the provisions of, and under the restrictions contained in Sections 6, 10, 11 and 12 of Ordinance No. 763, entitled "An Ordinance in relation to the improvement of streets," except that the sleepers shall be 4x8 instead of 4x6 inches. The sleepers shall be of four inch plank, with an inside measurement of 144 inches.

Section 5. The contractor shall take entire charge of the work during its progress, and shall be responsible for any loss or accident resulting from carelessness or neglect.

Section 6. The committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to advertise for proposals, receive bids and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder, or bidders, for the improvement specified in this Ordinance.

Section 7. The improvement shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Committee on Streets and Public Property, and the Street Commissioner.

Passed the Common Council January 22, 1873.
